

Abstract

A method for polishing an end face of a ferrule is disclosed herein. The ferrule includes an opening in which an optical fiber is positioned. The method includes the step of recessing an end of the optical fiber relative to the end face of the ferrule. The method 5 also includes the step of polishing the end face of the ferrule after the end of the optical fiber has been recessed.